Aimee is a Certified Life Coach who is passionate about teaching teens how to navigate the road of life so they can handle the bumps along the way with ease. Through self-development and discovering what is limiting them, teens are able to step into their full potential. She knows that once teens gain more knowledge about themselves and learn new, empowering techniques to guide them, they will also gain more confidence.

Aimee received her training through iPec, one of the top coaching institutions accredited by the International Coaching Federation. She also holds a Bachelor's Degree in Psychology from Elmhurst College.

Aimee is dedicated to creating a fun and informative learning environment. Each workshop participant leaves with powerful takeaways and real-life tools they can use to generate better outcomes and decrease stress in their lives.
